ADVANCING THE HUB of HEALTH

THE 2012 ADVANCEMENT REPORT
Of U.S. News & World Report’s “48 Top Doctors in Arkansas,” 38 are UAMS physicians.

On an average day, 150 patients come to the Emergency Department at UAMS, seven babies are born, 35 surgeries are performed, and 2,150 patients see doctors at UAMS clinics in central Arkansas and throughout the state.

UAMS College of Pharmacy is home to the state’s Poison Control Hotline, which receives more than 40,000 calls a year (averaging more than 100 calls a day).

The UAMS BioVentures business incubator has created 46 companies since its beginning, currently 19 of these companies produce annual payroll of $26.5 million.

UAMS ranks in the top 18 percent of all U.S. colleges and universities in research funding from the federal government.
At UAMS, we are honored to be in a position to serve as a premier center of health, healing and education for Arkansas, the nation and the world. We serve with you and because of you. Words cannot express adequately our appreciation for your time, energy, resources and acts of kindness in support of UAMS. I continue to be amazed at the transformative power we all hold when we dedicate ourselves to a cause with compassion, integrity and perseverance.

It is this type of positive transformation — created through the efforts of our friends, grateful patients and supporters, along with the talented and dedicated health care professionals and employees of UAMS — that gives UAMS the ability to face the challenges that lie ahead with the changing health care landscape.

We have faced and conquered many challenges in the past, and we stand ready to meet the challenges of the present and future, strengthened by your commitment to UAMS to stand with us as we progress into the future and rise to an even higher level of excellence.

We are energized by an intense passion to find novel therapies, breakthrough treatments, and cures for disease and illness that have impacted our society, our families and our friends for too long. We will continue to recruit the best physicians, scientists and researchers, and teachers of tomorrow’s health care professionals, to remain a premier leader in health care.

Your support serves a vitally important role, not only as a donor, but as a powerful force for a common goal to serve those in need and to provide better health care now and in the future. UAMS is a true treasure for Arkansas thanks to the help of so many.

We are Arkansas’ health sciences university. As the state’s largest public employer, our more than 10,000 employees reside in 72 of Arkansas’ 75 counties. We have welcomed patients from every county in Arkansas, all 50 states and at least 50 other countries. The economic impact of UAMS to our state exceeds $3.9 billion a year when including our affiliates Arkansas Children’s Hospital, and the Central Arkansas Veterans Healthcare System (Battelle Memorial Institute, Dec. 2010). Our total research funding is close to $130 million across the UAMS system.

The UAMS BioVentures business incubator program has created 46 companies thus far, nineteen of which produce an annual payroll of $26.5 million.

With all of these achievements, your philanthropy makes a difference. Each and every gift is important. UAMS receives only 9 percent of its funding needs from the state of Arkansas. State budgets have tightened and federal grants are increasingly more competitive to obtain. Now, more than ever, we rely on philanthropic contributions.

From all of us at UAMS, thank you for sharing our passion and our vision for improved health and a brighter future for all.

With Deepest Gratitude,

Dan Rahn, M.D.
Chancellor
Donor Recognition

Lifetime Gifts

For some, supporting the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences is a way to express appreciation for an education that laid the foundation for a successful professional life. Others partner with UAMS to enable the building of a facility or program, or to make a lasting difference with gifts to an endowment. Some also make annual leadership gifts as part of an overall philanthropic plan. UAMS gratefully acknowledges these alumni, friends, corporations, foundation and organizations whose lifetime gifts have advanced the mission of Arkansas’ only health sciences university.

The Society of the Double Helix

The University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences gratefully acknowledges the outstanding philanthropy and exemplary leadership of individuals, foundations, corporations and organizations that have contributed $100,000 or more to the institution since its founding in 1879. To honor these generous contributors – past, present and future – the UAMS Foundation Fund Board established the Society of the Double Helix on March 10, 1998.

The double helix structure of the DNA molecule is an appropriate symbol for this distinguished group whose individual contributions have combined to advance the central mission of UAMS: to teach, to heal, to search and to serve. The history of this internationally recognized symbol began in 1953 with the discovery of the deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) molecule by researchers James Watson and Francis Crick at Cambridge University. The discovery of this fundamental structure of life earned a Nobel Prize in 1963 and forever changed the universe of science and medicine.

The worldwide scientific community has adopted the double helix as a symbol of the quest for knowledge through scientific research. The vertically spiraling ribbons enveloping ladder-like horizontal crossbars are often compared to pathways to future discovery and staircases to success. The structure represents the continually unfolding relationship of science to all fields of human endeavor – including the conquest of disease.

The discovery by Watson and Crick revolutionized medical research, transformed biology, spawned the fields of biotechnology and genetic engineering, and enabled the creation of new pharmaceuticals. The discovery also united an entire medical community engaged in trying to understand the underlying mechanisms of genetically linked diseases.

Similarly, the members of the Society of the Double Helix have revolutionized the environment at UAMS through achievements realized with their support. They have helped to fund student scholarships, faculty and research endowments, state-of-the-art equipment purchases, construction of modern facilities and program centers of excellence.

Just as the winding ribbon staircase of the DNA molecule symbolizes the essence of life and constant search for knowledge, the membership of the Society of the Double Helix represents the pinnacle of excellence and commitment that moves the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences forward as a premier education, research and health care institution.

Donor Recognition Wall

The names of members of the Society of the Double Helix are honored in perpetuity on a wall display in the foyer of the Harry P. Ward Tower at UAMS. Some donors have requested anonymity. Names are listed as they appear on the donor wall.

The design is based on the intertwined ribbons of the DNA molecule, and it echoes the pattern of “The Miracle of the Double Helix,” a nine-foot bronze sculpture by Arkansas artist Hank Kaminsky that stands outside the Harry P. Ward Tower.

Induction Ceremonies

Through the years the philanthropic contributions of members of the Society of the Double Helix have helped advance the comprehensive mission of the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences to achieve international recognition.

UAMS in turn, has proudly held formal recognition ceremonies to officially induct philanthropic contributors into the Society with the first such ceremony being held in 1998. Members inducted in 1998 represent the founding members of the Society of the Double Helix which includes contributions made starting with the establishment of the institution in 1879.

Judy Adams Counts on UAMS

“Not a day goes by that I don’t give thanks to UAMS and its many outstanding programs for the countless blessings it has provided my family. It was my first grandson, Noah, who benefited from the state-of-the-art maternal-fetal medicine expertise at UAMS. A high-risk pregnancy handled with care at UAMS also led to the birth of my second grandson, Hutch. I am now leading a charge to establish an endowed chair in maternal-fetal medicine at UAMS that will ensure future generations receive the same top-notch care that my family received.”

Lisa McNeir Supports UAMS

“After my husband passed away, I developed an interest in preventive care and a team approach toward meeting the health needs of Arkansans. As a psychologist, I understand the importance of integrating several health components into a patient’s overall care, including maintaining a healthy mind and body. I believe quality health care requires the skills of a highly trained, integrated team. The UAMS College of Health Professions understands this approach and trains its students in the arts, humanities, and basic and social sciences for an educational experience that emphasizes life-long learning in the allied health professions.”

The Legacy Society

The Legacy Society at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences recognizes all donors who have made, or are making, gifts to any area at UAMS through a planned gift. This means, for instance, a bequest through a will or trust, the gift of an insurance policy, the remainder interest of a trust or annuity or any other contribution that is to be deferred until a future date in time. In the past, we too often discovered these gifts—many of which were very generous—only after the donors had passed away. One of the key goals of the Legacy Society is to recognize these caring, generous individuals during their lifetimes.

Bill Woodyard IV and UAMS: A Family Affair

“The relationship between UAMS and my family runs deep. It was at a Winthrop P. Rockefeller Cancer Institute Envoys event where I learned of the groundbreaking cancer treatment of Dr. Matthew Steliga. When my father, Bill Woodyard III, was diagnosed with lung cancer, I knew UAMS could help. Because of the excellent care that my father received, I joined the Envoys’ Board. My twin daughters were also born at UAMS and have benefited from its expert care. And my wife, Peyton, is chairing the 2012 Partners Card, a fundraising project of the volunteer auxiliary of the Cancer Institute. My family has reaped the benefits of the health care professionals at UAMS, and understands the importance of giving back.”

Helen Porter Has UAMS On Her Mind

“The generational stigma attached to admitting a problem with mental illness is counterproductive to many people seeking the help they need. I’ve seen it firsthand with family, close friends and even myself. The cutting-edge technology and brilliant minds conducting work at the UAMS Psychiatric Research Institute for many years helped light the path to a healthier, happier life for loved ones and me. UAMS combines research, education and clinical services into one state-of-the-art facility, and is working hard to shed light on mental illness and make the future brighter for many Arkansans in need. This is why I support the UAMS Psychiatric Research Institute.”

Helen Porter
UAMS Psychiatric Research Institute Board of Advisor
I have thoroughly enjoyed my first year as chairman of the UAMS Foundation Fund Board. It is a great honor and privilege to serve in this capacity and work with my fellow advisory board members.

UAMS currently has more than 1,400 committed stakeholders who volunteer their time, energy and resources to serve in various capacities and on volunteer advisory boards across UAMS.

These volunteers are some of the most important resources UAMS has to our credit. The synergy they produce, working together for the betterment of UAMS and their community is unparalleled.

Perhaps most important, these volunteers are credible, objective and energetic individuals with fresh perspectives who proudly serve as advocates for UAMS in their respective communities.

Our board members are diverse, coming from many different areas of the nation, and all with specialty expertise that brings a unique perspective as to UAMS’ role in health care.

Furthermore, board members are ambassadors for UAMS who raise public awareness of the needs, programs and development of the institution while providing guidance and leadership for fundraising initiatives. On behalf of UAMS, I am grateful for their commitment and support.

Seeing the work being done at UAMS every day and its impact means a great deal to me, and it is very satisfying to know that I am lending a hand toward that end. When our boards are together, the discussion centers around how we can help make what is great about UAMS even greater. What could be more gratifying than that?

As we celebrate the philanthropic achievements of our university, let me say thank you to my fellow board members and to each of you for making UAMS successful in the pursuit of our most important and collective mission of improving the health and health care of our state and beyond. I’d also like to offer a special thanks to all Institutional Advancement staff who proudly come to work every day with the goal of advancing the UAMS mission. Together, we are all making a difference.

If you find yourself interested in participating as a volunteer after you review this publication, and this board directory in particular, please send an email to advancement@uams.edu with your contact information and interests.

Sincerely,

Kevin A. Crass

UAMS Advisory Boards

UAMS is grateful to have many Advisory Boards associated with its colleges, institutes, and programs. We have found that, regardless of the particular board on which a person serves at UAMS, each and every board member selflessly shares their unique and individual talents along with a passion for what drives them to become involved as a community leader. Their passion is to make a difference.

At UAMS, our board members have the opportunity to make a difference in public education, patient care, healthcare research, outreach programs, population health issues, statewide information technology, improvement of health outcomes, and promotion of economic, scientific, and social advancement for the state of Arkansas and the region. We are grateful for their commitment and support.

The economic impact of UAMS, including affiliates Arkansas Children’s Hospital and the Central Arkansas Veterans Healthcare System, exceeds $3.9 billion a year. (Battelle Memorial Institute, Dec. 2010)

The UAMS College of Medicine Department of Geriatrics, located in the Donald W. Reynolds Institute on Aging, is ranked by U.S. News & World Report as the 7th best geriatric graduate program in the nation out of 130 peers.
As the Vice Chancellor for Institutional Advancement, I am honored to work with such distinguished colleagues and dedicated partners. We take seriously our responsibility to be good stewards of your gifts. We answer to you, our friends and supporters, and our goal is to maximize the return on your investment. In turn, we are able to engage in activities that result in better health for our state and beyond.

As noted in our Donor Bill of Rights, which is published on our website, philanthropy is a tradition of giving and sharing that is primary to the quality of life. To assure that philanthropy merits the respect and trust of the general public, and that all donors can have full confidence in us is our goal. We declare that all donors have the right to be informed about the way we intend to use donated resources and have access to our most recent financial statements. Our foremost goal is to assure our donors that all gifts will be used for their intended purpose.

The dashboards included on the following pages exemplify our commitment to you, and provide a quantified representation of philanthropy at UAMS during fiscal year 2012.

I am encouraged as I review the year’s highlights and I am appreciative of you and the thousands who believe in UAMS. Without your great generosity and commitment, we would not be the world-class health sciences center that we are today. For that, we are truly grateful.

Thank you for caring about Arkansas,

Lance Burchett
