Physician Assistant Director Begins Assembling Program

With plans to hire the first faculty members and program entry requirements set, the elements for creating the new physician assistant program are coming together, said the program's recently hired director.

"There are a lot of things starting to happen. It's a busy time," said Patricia Kelly, Ph.D., who arrived in November as chair of the College of Health Related Professions' new Department of Physician Assistant Studies.

A Note from Dean Murphy

Welcome to the first edition of the College of Health Related Professions' electronic newsletter.

A few months ago, we introduced a print newsletter to share some of the great things going on in our college. We are complementing that twice-yearly print publication with a quarterly electronic newsletter to keep you up-to-date on the college and introduce you to more of our community of scholars, our students and our exceptional programs.
